

Nissim Zuaretz Gets Another Term as ISDMA President

The Israel Diamond Manufacturers Association (ISDMA) has unanimously reelected Nissim Zuaretz as its president for a second three-year term.

The vote took place on September 6 following ISDMA's general meeting, the organization said the same day.

Zuaretz is the founder and CEO of DN Diamonds, an Israel-based company specializing in polished stones of 3 carats and up. He became ISDMA president in 2020, succeeding Kobi Korn.

The organization also named 27 other board members — including honorary presidents Korn, Moti Ganz, Yigal Hausman and Avraham Traub — as well as a two-person audit committee.

ISDMA represents around 200 diamond cutting firms that constitute approximately 95% of the Israeli diamond industry's total output, according to the Israeli Diamond Industry (IDI) website.

Image: Nissim Zuaretz. (Nissim Zuaretz)