Diamond trading may have slowed in 2023, but there are several developments that are shaping the market and creating positive energy around jewelry. In this episode of the Rapaport Diamond Podcast, the editorial team discusses some of the high-profile events that may have raised the bar for the rest of the industry.

Editor in Chief Sonia Esther Soltani and Senior Reporter Leah Meirovich join Senior Analyst Avi Krawitz to talk about the recent opening of Tiffany & Co.'s landmark New York store, Signet Jewelers' recent comments on the bridal sector, the upcoming GemGenève show and the state of the auction market ahead of the Christie's and Sotheby's Magnificent Jewels sales in Geneva.
